Policy and Procedure Concerning Potential Conflicts of Interest

As an APA-approved sponsor of continuing education, NEFESH International is committed to identifying and resolving potential conflicts of interest in the planning, promotion, delivery, and evaluation of continuing education. Consistent with concepts outlined in the APA Ethical Principles of Psychologists and Code of Conduct, potential conflicts of interest occur when an individual assumes a professional role in the planning, promotion, delivery, or evaluation of continuing education where personal, professional, legal, financial, or other interests could reasonably be expected to impair his or her objectivity, competence, or effectiveness.

Potential Conflicts of Interest in the Planning of Continuing Education programs NEFESH Online Professional Committee Chairs and Conference Committee Chairs are responsible for identifying, declare, and resolve any potential conflict of interest.

All presenters must complete a conflict-of-interest form upon submission of their application of presenting. In the event of a potential conflict of interest, the Programming Committee's chairperson will review the presenter's clarification of the presenter's conflict and evaluate whether the program meets the threshold to provide CE.

NEFESH International requires that professionals participating in the planning of continuing education identify any potential conflict of interest they may have in the review, selection, development, delivery, or evaluation of that program and disclose the conflict or recuse themselves from any decision-making concerning that program. Alice Tusk, LMSW, CE program chair, will ensure that the individual recuses him or herself from the planning process in the event of a potential conflict of interest.

Potential Conflicts of Interest in the Promotion of Continuing Education

NEFESH International will clearly describe any commercial support for the CE program, presentation, or instructor to program participants when the CE program begins. Any other relationship that could be reasonably construed as a conflict of interest also must be disclosed. Individual presenters must disclose and explain the presence or absence of commercial support or conflict of interest when the CE program begins.
